Dean Howard, along with the rest of the College of Social Sciences, is proud to announce the recipients of the 2005 Center for Chinese Language and Culture (CCLC) Award. The award is presented annually to recognize outstanding contributions to the fields of Chinese language and culture.

The award is given to individuals who have made significant contributions to the development of Chinese language and culture in Canada. This year, we are pleased to announce that the award has been presented to Professor Li Ming, a well-known scholar in the field of Chinese linguistics.

As the Dean of the Faculty of Arts, I would like to congratulate Professor Li Ming on this well-deserved recognition. His contributions to the field have been invaluable and have significantly advanced our understanding of Chinese language and culture.

I would like to take this opportunity to encourage all of our faculty members to continue to support and promote the study of Chinese language and culture. The College of Social Sciences is committed to fostering a diverse and inclusive academic environment that promotes excellence in teaching and research.

Thank you for your hard work and dedication to the field of Chinese language and culture.
